Last Week's Program:

Our own Phillip S. Griffin, II gave us a snapshot of the upcoming 2010 elections. He did a soft shoe dance as he tried to remain bipartisan during his speech highlighting the upcoming election races at both national and state levels. With a bit of a slant toward the Republican Party, Phil reminded us to look for some interesting races this coming election season in the states of California, Ohio and Florida. He noted that Brown in California was touting the claim to fame: "if elected, he would be the youngest and oldest governor to serve CA".

While there was some humor in the recent advertising tactics being used, it appears that this is a year of decisions leading to possible turnover in the parties and powers which will determine the direction on many legislative decisions; or not. As Phil wrapped up his speech, he reminded us that for each minute he spoke, the national debt was increasing by about $600 million dollars. Now, how is that for your dining pleasure?
